

HANOVER MAN IS JAILED IN HIT-RUN CASE

Tonight Smith, 24, 734 McAllister St., Hanover, was in the Adams County jail today, charged with failing to stop at the scene of an accident before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore and with failing to yield one-half the highway before Justice of the Peace Charles R. Doll, Conewago Twp.

State police said Smith was driving west Friday night in a car owned by Darla Millhimes, Gettysburg R. 5, when the vehicle sideswiped an eastbound auto driven by Donna R. Fische, 16, Gettysburg R. 2. The crash occurred in Brushstown, about a half mile west of McSherrystown, on the Gettysburg-Hanover Rd. Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $200.

Smith told the officers he dropped a pack of cigarettes to floor while driving and, when he reached down to pick up the cigarettes, his eyes left the road and the car sideswiped the Fische auto, causing damage to the left front fender, headlight, front door and rear door of the Millhimes car and to the left side and left rear fender of the Fische vehicle.

Police said Smith told them he kept on going after the accident because he had "a few beers" to drink and was afraid of losing his license. Police said Smith called the substitution here at 9:15 o'clock Friday night, following the accident, to report that he had been hit by a hit-run car.

Officers during their investigation checked both ways and decided that Smith had been the "hitter" instead of the "hit" and put him in jail Saturday.

By RONALD THOMSON

The notes suggested that Poland and Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany attend, along with representatives of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

THROGS SEE NEW MUSEUM, MEET TV STAR

"It was far beyond our highest expectations and I just cannot be too lavish in my thanks and appreciation to the hundreds and hundreds who attended our open house Saturday."

That statement was made this morning by Cliff Arquette, who stars as Charley Weaver on the Jack Paar TV show, with reference to the "open house" he held Saturday afternoon at the Cliff Arquette Soldiers' Museum at 777 Baltimore St.

Hundreds waited in line most of Saturday afternoon to see the new museum and Arquette shook hands "with more than 1,100 before we lost count," he said. The "open house" was scheduled for from one until four o'clock Saturday afternoon but Arquette was unable to close the doors until after 5 o'clock with a still large crowd standing in line.

Crowd On Sunday
Hundreds more attended an informal gathering at the museum Saturday evening.

On Sunday the museum was opened to the public and again hundreds lined up three and four abreast in lines most of the afternoon.

Visitors were registered from Florida, Salem, Mass., Oregon and California. Many others came from Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and other large cities. One couple drove here in a taxi cab from Hanover to see the museum and to meet Arquette.

"We expected a fairly large crowd," Arquette said this morning, "but we certainly did not bargain for such a capacity crowd both Saturday and Sunday. We were amazed and tremendously pleased and I want to publicly express my appreciation to all my good friends in Gettysburg and vicinity who shared this open house with us."

State Considering 2 Bypass Routes

The Department of Highways is currently making studies of Route 15 bypass routes around Gettysburg but these studies are "strictly preliminary," Robert Klucher, department district engineer in Harrisburg, said today.

Under consideration are two routes, one east of and one west of Gettysburg, he said, beginning at the Conewago Creek (Twin Bridges) and extending southward to the existing highway south of here at a spot which cannot be pinpointed pending completion of the studies.

Klucher said that cost comparisons between the two routes will be made.

The department is actively engaged in developing plans for construction of Route 15 from the York Springs bypass southward to Conewago Creek, the engineer said.

MAN SHOT IN LEG TUSSLING WITH WOMAN

A Taneytown R. 1 man, now a patient in the Warner Hospital as a result of a gunshot wound in his right leg, will face charges of assault with a deadly weapon and assault with intent to kill, Maryland state police said today. The charges arise from an alleged attack by Sterling Richard Stambaugh, 35, against his wife and one of her girl friends early Sunday morning in Taneytown.

Trooper William Winegrad, who investigated the incident, said that Stambaugh's wife, Mrs. Georgia Lou Stambaugh, and a friend, Miss Ardie Miller, were enroute home from Baltimore at 3:45 a.m. Sunday when they passed a service station in Taneytown, operated by Stambaugh. They reported to police that they saw Stambaugh's car there as they passed.

Shot In Leg

Stambaugh is reported to have driven out and forced the car in which the women were riding off the road, then to have gone to the right of the car, firing two shots from a .25-caliber automatic pistol. The women reported to police that Stambaugh threatened both of them. Miss Miller, who was on the right side of the car, pleaded and struggled with Stambaugh and struck his arm as he fired with the result that the bullet from Stambaugh's gun struck his leg above the right knee. Despite the wound he pulled his wife from the car, Trooper Winegrad said, and struggled with her.

Stambaugh then drove to Miss Miller's home and knocked on the door, rousing her father who found Stambaugh at the door in a semi-conscious condition from loss of blood. Stambaugh was taken to the office of a Taneytown physician and then to the hospital where his condition was reported this morning as satisfactory.

Trooper Winegrad said he questioned Stambaugh at the hospital and that Stambaugh told him he had been cleaning his gun when it went off. The trooper checked the scene of the reported attack and said he found considerable blood there. He said that State Attorney Donald Spenseler, Carroll County, told him of his intent to file the two assault charges.

Gov. Lawrence Hands Pa. Legislature 'Hard-headed' Budget; Needs New Taxes

By LEONARD A. UNGER
HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence today handed the Legislature a self-styled "hard-headed" budget of $1,907,012,354 for the Commonwealth in 1959-60 and proposed 400 millions in new taxes to balance it.

As expected, the figure is a record high. But Lawrence made it plain that any reductions by the politically divided General Assembly would mean a cutback in state services.

There were few surprises in his 5,000-word message and the massive 1¼-pound budget document itself.

Asks Quick Okay

He asked quick acceptance of the entire fiscal program recommended by his bipartisan tax advisory committee. It featured increasing the 3 per cent sales tax to 3½ per cent.

The other proposed levies range from reviving the cent-a-bottle soft drinks impost and imposing a four-mill personal property tax

WOMAN SHOPS HERE ON FIVE BAD CHECKS

A black-haired 28-year-old woman, wearing a pinkish leatherette jacket, passed at least $100 worth of bad checks at women's stores in Gettysburg Saturday afternoon.

Borough police said the woman, who was described as five feet, four, weighing about 115 pounds and of slender build, passed bad checks for $20 each at the Jack and Jill Shop, Modern Miss Shop, Tot and Teen Shop, LeVan's Fashions and the Co-Ed Shop.

At each she posed as "Barbara Martin" and said she resided on W. Middle St. She gave various addresses on W. Middle St. at the various stores during her visits there between 3:30 and 5 o'clock Saturday evening.

Police said the woman had deposited a "small amount" of money in a local bank in order to secure a bank book.

Chief Asks Precautions

At each of the five women's dress shops she shopped for a time, secured some article worth from $5 to $8 and then cashed a check for $20, leaving with the merchandise and the change.

Chief of Police Jack Bartlett, noting that within the past week 11 bad checks have been turned in for him to locate the passers, asked that merchants either refrain entirely from cashing checks of unknown persons, or if they want to cash a check, that they ask the passer to show some kind of identification, such as an auto registration card, or a driver's license. He said that with the number of a drivers' license or the license of a car, persons can generally be traced "because it gives us some place to start. In this instance we have only a description that could fit many women." He added that social security numbers are of no value in identification because such numbers cannot be traced due to the confidential manner in which the federal government keeps them.

ALBIE BOOTH DIES SUNDAY

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's sports fans today mourned Albert (Albie) Booth—the man who emulated heroic fiction with his athletic feats at Yale.

The former football star, who was 51, died of a heart attack early Sunday morning after attending a Broadway play with his wife.

Booth was the second Yale football great to die within two weeks. Bruce Caldwell, who preceded Booth at the New Haven, Conn. school, died Feb. 15 after a long illness. He was 53.

Has Two Daughters

Booth was still a well known figure to football fans. He was one of the country's top football officials and officiated at such classics as the Army-Navy game.

Booth managed an ice cream company in New Haven. He is survived by his wife, Marion, and two daughters. He was a resident of Hamden, Conn., a New Haven suburb.

Booth ruled the athletic scene at Yale from 1929-31. He played football, basketball and baseball, winning eight varsity letters and enshrining himself as the greatest of Yale's athletes.

New Oxford Folk Charged In Liberty

Dog Law Enforcement Officer James McDowell this morning arrested nine persons in the vicinity of Green Springs and New Oxford on charges of harboring unlicensed dogs.

Anthony, Ordington Laughman, Fannie Reed, Edward Laughman, Gilbert Fridge, Glenn Laughman and Oscar Laughman, all of Hanover R. 5, and Edward O'Brien, New Oxford R. 1, McDowell said.

McDowell was accompanied by Earl Werd, Lancaster - Lebanon County dog law enforcement officer, in making the almost door-to-door check of the area.

He added that he plans further "door-to-door" checks in other sections of the county "taking up first those areas where we know there are large numbers of unlicensed dogs."

FAIL SUNDAY TO LAUNCH MOON PROBE ROCKET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Army missilemen went back to work for their lunar probe rocket today after failing Sunday night to launch a satellite past the moon and into a solar orbit.

The 76-foot rocket, Juno II, stood poised in floodlights for a half hour and the firing crew had progressed to within minutes of target time when the shot was postponed. No reason was given officially, but it was learned that a power failure caused the decision to scrub.

Another effort could be made tonight, Tuesday or Wednesday while the moon is in favorable proximity to earth, 221,000 miles away. After that, a month's delay would be necessary until the moon again swings into the correct position.

"Technical Difficulties"

All that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would say about the postponement was that it was due to "technical difficulties."

The launching — similar to the first Army space probe Dec. 6 — will be another attempt to fire a gold-plated payload more than a half million miles above the earth to become an artificial planet of the sun. The Soviets say they turned the trick with a 1 ton Lunik satellite Jan. 4.

As in the first flight, the cone-shaped Pioneer probe will carry special instruments to measure two radiation bands that hang over the earth starting at about 1,000 miles.

The Army crewmen, working on a precise timetable, missed their first chance to fire within a 10-minute deadline Sunday night when trouble developed during the countdown. Before they could make another attempt, the azimuth direction ring at the base of the missile had to be readjusted to compensate for the rotation of the earth and moon during the time lag.

Foul weather has blanketed the Cape for the past four days. A steady rain fell for hours Sunday night, but the skies began to clear shortly before launch time.

This is the fifth and last space probe authorized as part of the International Geophysical Year program. However, many more daring space ventures are expected during 1959.

The budget message encompassed only general state expenditures.

Separate Budgets Coming

The governor told newsmen he would submit by the end of the month separate budgets for the highway fund, financed entirely by gasoline taxes and motor license fees; the fish and game funds, whose revenue comes from sportsmen's license fees, and a Korean bonus fund.

A proposed 150-million-dollar Korean bonus would be financed by increasing the five-cents-a-pack cigarette tax to six cents.

These added spending programs would send the Commonwealth's over-all budget to close to 2-billion-dollar mark for the two years starting June 1.

Most of the new money is intended to offset a record deficit of $177,678,874 for the current two-year fiscal period ending next May 31 and enough money to prevent recurrence of the big splash of red ink in the next two years.

Nearly 84 million dollars of the additional taxes, he said, are needed to finance programs ordered expanded by existing law. In this category is 61 millions in increased state aid for schools.

It leaves $148,831,388 for other spending—and it is in this area the Legislature will be limited in its cuts.

Biggest Boost

The biggest single boost included in that figure is 54½ million dollars for the Public Welfare Department. It would get 24 millions more for mental health, 12½ millions more for relief, $3,707,000 for the state's 10 general hospitals and $4,600,000 for Philadelphia General Hospital for indigent patients.

He proposed increasing the state police force from 1,900 men to 2,100 in the next two years and boosting the daily subsistence allowance from $2.75 to $3.75 per man at an increased cost of nearly five million dollars.

State-aided universities, medical schools and other educational institutions would get an added $9,700,000 — 15 per cent more than they now get. Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, and Drexel Institute and Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science would be listed for Commonwealth subsidies for the first time.

Community Colleges

The four largest — Penn State, Penn. Temple and Pitt—asked for much larger boosts than Lawrence recommended. Penn State, for example, requested $43,900,000. Lawrence approved $34,227,000 compared with $29,268,000 received from the 1957 Legislature.

The 14 state teachers' colleges would receive $40,278,783 compared to the 34 millions in the current biennium.

Lawrence also proposed a million dollar appropriation to set up community colleges in local high schools. His aides explained the figure was a starting point to get the program going in about a half dozen areas.

Cuts In Education

It compared with the 30 millions Leader proposed two years ago for a system of junior colleges, college scholarships and student loans. There were no provisions for the latter two in the Lawrence budget.

Most of the budget cuts are in the field of education. They include $260,000 from the special program for educating handicapped children, $23,000 for school milk and lunch projects and $37,000 from curriculum development.

Sales Tax For Schools
But education continued to represent the big chunk in the Commonwealth's spending pie. It totals $885,246,300 or 46.2 per cent of the $1,907,012,354 general fund budget. He said all of the estimated 179 million dollars in revenue from the sales tax should be specifically earmarked for education.

Health and welfare spending would total 479 millions or 25.13 per cent.

Boost For Commerce
Way down the list is general government, including items like salaries and expenses—$85,688,000 or 4.49 per cent of the budget.

The biggest percentage increase to a single department went to Commerce whose 1957-59 appropriation of $9,513,000 would be more than double to $22,676,657.

Most of it would go for 10 million dollars in industrial development loans. The latter figure compares with $5,200,000 in the current biennium of which $2,200,000 became law only last week.

For Tourist Trade

The department also would get $220,000 for a new plan of providing regional groups with assistance in developing tourist trade.

A brand new expenditure of $1,329,158 was recommended for flood control. No appropriation was made for this by the 1957 Legislature on the basis that money had been still available from a 1955 grant.

The flood control money would be spent for maintenance and operation of the Harrisburg flood control headquarters, the Stroudsburg district office, the George B. Stevenson Dam on Sinnemahoning Creek and operation and maintenance of flood forecasting warning systems.

Would End Subsidy

The governor also recommended that the ceiling on state-aided school construction be increased from 925 millions to $1,150,000,000.

In addition, the governor, proposed ending the $200 a year sub-

Charge York Man Murdered Wife

Robert H. Phillips, 34, York, has been charged with murdering his wife, 36-year-old Zada F. Phillips, who was killed by a shotgun blast Saturday.

Phillips is in York County jail pending a hearing before Alderman William M. Nickey with whom the murder charge was filed by city detectives.

Mrs. Phillips died from the blast of a 12-gauge single barrel shotgun about 9:45 a.m. Saturday in the house where her husband had a two-room apartment, according to Detective Capt. Martin L. Avis and Dr. Thomas M. Hart, county coroner.

Capt. Avis said he understands the couple had been separated about a year.

If a district already has received $1,000 for this, the payments would end immediately. If not, they would continue until the $1,000 figure is reached. Lawrence estimated 2½ million dollars could be saved in the next two years by this plan.

Boost License Fee

Increased state license fees for beauticians, barbers, physicians, engineers and other professional groups licensed by the Public Instruction Department also were proposed by the governor to raise $304,000 in the next two years. Specific fee boosts were not listed.

On public assistance, the extra 12½ million dollars recommended by the governor would be principally to giving a $2 a month increased food allowance to persons on public assistance rolls. The remainder would meet the cost of increased case loads.

The executive committee of the Adams County Young Adults Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the YWCA.

was reported determined, in his visits later this month to President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle, to insist that a parity with Khrushchev himself was the only way that might lift the Soviet threat to Berlin.

The Soviets had originally proposed, on Jan. 10, that a 28-nation conference be held to conclude separate peace treaties with West and East Germany as part of the Soviet plan to end the Allied occupation of West Berlin.

The West on Feb. 16 rejected the peace conference proposal and suggested instead a foreign ministers meeting to discuss the whole issue of German reunification. The West also restated its determination not to be driven out of Berlin, saying it could not accept the Soviets' unilateral ending of the World War II occupation.

Khrushchev in his speech last week also stuck to the long-standing Soviet position on German reunification, that it must be negotiated by the two German governments and not by the Big Four.

West Germany, with full Allied backing, refuses to recognize the East German regime to the extent of holding political negotiations with it.

Macmillan told Soviet leaders in Leningrad Sunday night that his talks with Khrushchev, while yielding no immediate results, "will be of great assistance in the international discussions which must lie ahead."

"I say that these discussions must lie ahead because I firmly believe that the dangerous situation with which we may be faced cannot be resolved without negotiations," Macmillan declared.

A foreign ambassador in Moscow said Khrushchev had told him he is not pessimistic about the talks with Macmillan. But he said the Soviet premier still insists there must be a peace treaty with both East and West Germany and liquidation of the Western occupation of West Berlin.

AT EXCHANGE MEETING

David March, Gettysburg R. 3, was among those attending the 41st annual meeting of the Eastern States Farmers Exchange at Springfield, Mass., last week. Paul J. Reaver, of the Biglerville service center of the exchange, reported today.

He added that the annual reports of the Eastern States group showed that value of supplies distributed by the 102 service centers in nine states increased by $3,657,000 to $87,102,050. He said the report shows an increasing number of custom mixes and increased use of fertilizer and that interest in brachytic (dwarf type) corn and pre-cut seed potatoes is "skyrocketing."

Horrible Affair At Washington
On Sunday afternoon, the 27th ult. the community of Washington city was thrown into an intense excitement by the killing of Philip Barton Key, United States District Attorney for the District of Columbia, by Daniel E. Sickles. According to the report Mr. Sickles, becoming convinced of the truth of certain scandalous rumors involving his wife, resolved to redress his wrongs. About two o'clock in the afternoon, proceeding from his residence near the President's house to the south-east corner of Lafayette Square in the same neighborhood, where Mr. Key was Mr. Butterworth, of New York, he charged Mr. Key with having dishonored him and destroyed his domestic peace and shot him with a revolver. One of the balls entered the left side of the body and passed through the corresponding position on the opposite side, lodging under the skin. Another shot took effect in the right thigh, near the main artery, when Mr. Key fell, imploring Mr. Sickles not to kill him. The third shot was in the right side, but glanced from the body, inflicting only a bruise. Death ensued in a few minutes.

On Monday last, in the House of Representatives, Mr. Durbin read in his place a bill to incorporate the East Berlin Railroad company, also one authorizing the Commissioners of Adams county to sell and convey certain real estate.

The National Guards is the name of the new Military Company recently organized at Hagerstown, this county. About 40 or 45 persons already belong to the company. On the 12th ult. the following officers were elected:—Capt., Dr. C. E. Goldsborough; 2d Lieut., Wm. N. Sanders; Orderly Sergeant, Jacob Potoff. The post of 1st lieutenant remains yet to be filled.

The new military company at New Oxford — numbering about 40 men, we understand—has also been regularly organized.

Rare Game: Mr. Michael Cole, week before last, in Hamilton township, shot two others, one over four feet in length, and the other three feet eight inches.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
New Oxford Items: Another freeze, thaw, fog, rain, mud and snow. Now the roads are almost impassable, mud hub deep, so that it took the New Chester express three hours to carry the Chester express three hours to carry the mail four miles. The York Springs mail made in five hours—12 miles.

Middletown Items: The snow that fell on Wednesday night was quite a surprise to a great many. Another snow fell on Saturday night and Sunday. Good for the grain.

Mrs. Jacob Chronister, of near Heidersburg, reports having a Rubra Begonia flower plant, which has been blooming for 14 months past, and which measures 4 feet high and bears two different kinds of flowers.

Mr. Samuel Lawver and family of near Beecherville, left for Abilene, Kan., last Saturday.

The New Railroad: As we were going to press last Tuesday we briefly announced the completion of the Gettysburg and Harrisburg Railroad and the arrival of the first train. Our people have been looking forward with much interest to the completion of this great enterprise, and Tuesday was in some respects a "gala" day in Gettysburg, although no special celebration was intended and no previous announcement had been made.

It leaked out, however that Messrs. Cooke and Fuller would with a party of invited guests arrive on Tuesday morning with a special train to superintend the driving of the "golden spike" and impromptu arrangements were made during the morning to give

Today's Talk

NEVER MIND

Pay no attention to those who glory in telling you that what you have in mind is impossible. Of course it is possible if you desire it to be! Again and again it has proved to be true. Get into action and go forward, as though you had done this same job a hundred times. Never mind what the defeatists have to say. Have faith, and believe. This world owes a great Thank You of gratitude to all those who have gone ahead and done the impossible, to those who have said in their hearts "Never Mind!"

How much happier each one of us would be if we only learned to silently say "Never Mind," when wrongly judged or accused. There will always be those around to see if you know how to go ahead, without fear or favor.

Never Mind. Every night when I go home from my office I await the time that my driver passes the sign "Keep Right!" It lifts me, and perhaps many another. If we keep right we have nothing to fear, nothing to disturb our plans for life ahead.

When I was packing up to go home, after graduating from college, I felt something in the corner of a quilt my mother had made and which had served me happily for four years. I cut it open and read in a little note these words: "Remember, my boy, when far from home, that there will be times when you will be tried, and when those whom you trusted will prove untrue, but remember then that your success and happiness will depend upon your being true to yourself, your mother, and to God."

I took that little piece of my mother's writing and carefully filed it away with a few other treasured things, and prayed a silent prayer to God that I might forever remain true to such a selfless mother. I have learned often to "Never Mind" when things have gone wrong — for those words lie treasured in my heart.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "That Meeting Through Chance"

LONG WINTER
It seems that the winter will never depart

And the snow never melt from the hill

To the poor city fellow grown hungry at heart

For a crack once again at the pill.

The rich may go south where the birds sweetly sing

And never the white blankets fall,

But the poor city fellow must wait for the spring

Oh, long are the winters to those of us here

Whose clubs are stacked there in the hall;

And it seems that the Maytime will never draw near

And let us get a crack at the ball.

The special train, drawn by the new locomotive, "Jay Cooke," left Hunter's Run with a number of invited guests at 9 a.m. The trip from Hunter's Run to the place of driving the golden spikes was made slowly, in order to give time for an inspection of the construction of the road, which, though not finished, was admired for its thoroughness and honesty.

At Keckler's Hill, on Cobean's farm, the train drew up, where the excursionists were joined by a number of citizens from town and county. Treasurer John H. Butler, taking the two "golden" spikes from his pocket, presented them to Col. Fuller in a neat speech. The spikes were then driven amid applause, and the train, with whistle screaming, bell ringing and flags flying, came into town about noon amid booming of cannon and the cheers of the large crowd who had assembled at the depot.

LENTEN GUIDEPPOSTS

WHY DOES YOUTH GO WRONG?

By Chase Walker
Dr. Benjamin Spock, whose long career in the training of children has given parents some of their best guidance. Upon taking the chair he offered in his small, unpretentious office, in Cleveland, I asked: "Why do teen-agers from apparently good homes get into such terrible trouble?"

A tall, gray-haired man, still with the excellent physique that had made him an outstanding athlete at Yale, Dr. Spock looked at me thoughtfully.

The "Good Home"
"I'm glad you specified 'apparently,'" he said. "There can be a difference between a good home and a respectable home, you know. In a respectable home there may be little love—or none at all. Teen-agers from a truly good home, a home full of warmth and affection, will rarely get into serious trouble."

"Does that definition include religion?" I asked.

"Certainly," said Dr. Spock. "A family that loves God is usually made up of people who find it easy to love one another—and the opposite is also true."

I asked: "Then why do teen-agers have a tendency to turn away from religion?"

"Actually they don't," he said. "The turn away from authority and draw the line at what they consider hand-me-down rules of life. Today, abandoning religion is considered the 'intellectual' thing to do among college students, but this attitude passes."

His Own Experience
"When I was at school several of the fellows refused to go to chapel, and I used to think I was surrounded by atheists. But when I met them later as husbands and fathers they were all pillars of the church."

"Then withdrawal from religion is a passing phase in teen-agers?"

"Usually," said Dr. Spock, "and it often happens if parents use religion as a source of authority over the child. Teen-agers resent strict supervision and tricks used to impose it."

On Strictness
"On the other hand, most teen-agers are pleased that their parents care enough about them to be prudently strict. But the firmness should be explained. The daughter whose boy friend is constantly criticized for having a bad reputation is apt to think: 'It isn't Tom they don't trust; it's me. All right, I'll give them something to worry about.'"

"And then she may well go ahead and do something foolish. But when the firmness is explained in the family spirit of love, trust and understanding, there aren't parental headaches when the children go out more and more on their own."

"How does a father influence a child's religious attitudes?" I asked.

"Directly," said Dr. Spock. "A father who is loving, patient and understanding teaches his children by his conduct that obedience and discipline are a part of love. The child accepts this axiom, and he also accepts it in his relation with God as he becomes more aware of religion in his life."

The Age Of Rebellion
"Until six or seven, the average child is rather willing to accept the authority of his parents. Also, he believes at this age that his father is the greatest man in the world, and he has already announced his plans to marry his mother when he grows up to marrying age."

"Then the day comes when Junior realizes that his father has already married his mother. He decides he is through with Dad and looks around for some other source of authority. He starts spending more time out of the house."

"You must learn to recognize the traits of this rebellion, however. For instance, on one occasion my younger son came home with the announcement that red corpuscles were larger than white corpuscles. I asked him where he got that impression and he said: 'Teacher said so.' That was it; I couldn't argue; teacher was now the boy's final authority. If I had attached too much importance to such events they would have been exaggerated out of proportion and there could have been unpleasant aftereffects."

Time For Religious Training
"Doctor," I asked, "when would you say is the best time to start the formal religious training of a child?"

"During the first siege of rebellion at six or seven," he said. "The child is looking for authority; he isn't especially happy about accepting it from his parents, but he still knows he needs it. He is ready now to learn about his first duties to God and the behavior God expects of him. But he must also be able to see this behavior in his parents."

As I left Dr. Spock's office, I found myself summing up his remarks: A teen-ager embroiled in the struggle to find himself and his place in the world cannot be expected to care much for others and their property unless he knows that others have cared enough for him. It was a simple axiom, and one I hoped parents with troublesome teen-agers might learn to apply.

The Life Of Christ From Cana To The Raising Of Lazarus

During His public ministry, Jesus gave the people many "signs" of His divinity — of His identification with God the Father — but it saddened Him to realize that the people preferred the working of miracles to being told the road to heaven.

Yet His compassion was such that He healed the sick, the blind and the cripple. When the multitude was hungry, He fed thousands on five barley loaves and two fishes.

Then one day Lazarus, brother of Martha and Mary, died. All three were good and trusted friends of Jesus. By the time He reached Bethany, Lazarus had been four days in the tomb.

"Where have you laid him to rest?" Jesus asked.

"Remove Slab Of Stone"
"Come and see, Lord," several people replied.

A slab of stone lay tilted against the entrance of an underground tomb. "Remove the slab of stone," Jesus said softly.

The slab was lifted and turned away. Now they could look down into the dark interior, where water dripped from slimy rocks. Jesus spread both arms out before Him. His eyes were now fixed on the entrance to the tomb. "Lazarus!" He shouted, "come forth!"

The people waited. They stared fixedly at the mouth of the tomb, and suddenly they saw a white ball, then a long white garment, and then the tottering feet, bound so as to be almost immobile. It was Lazarus. He lived.

"Proofs Of Power"
"Unwrap him," Jesus said, "and let him go."

The Day Christ Died

The author's detailed, hour-by-hour account of the most dramatic day in history started with 6 p.m. — the beginning of the Hebrew day — with Jesus and Disciples coming into Jerusalem with the throngs gathering for the Passover observance. At their gathering in an upper room of the home of the rich father of the Apostle Mark, for the supper of roast lamb, salad, fruits and red wine, Jesus astonished the Disciples by His action in washing their feet. Then, in the instruction that followed this lesson in humility, He dismayed them by emphasizing His awareness that His betrayal was at hand. He indicated that He knew Judas would be His betrayer through a gesture and the words, "That which you do, do quickly," not comprehended by any of those present except Judas, John and, perhaps, Peter. When Judas left, the others assumed the Master had ordered Judas to go out and buy things for the Passover festival.

Judas hurried to the home of the high priest Caiaphas, to inform him where Jesus might be found by Roman legionaries. Then Caiaphas

Gentile. Sometimes, now that he thought of it, the sentry remembered that a few would come into the fortress courtyard and stand waiting; others more strict, like this one, waited outside or under the stones of the twin gate.

Thieves Or Murderers

None that he could recall ever went inside the fortress, even when invited by the procurator to his private apartments upstairs. The exceptions, of course, were prisoners. They were dragged into the dungeon below, near the stone cachements, and they invariably waited that they were being defiled. This was amusing to the Syrians who served in the Roman army here, because the culprits were thieves or murderers or tax dodgers before they entered the fortress.

The Syrians did not like Jews for several reasons. One was that Syrians were conscripted into the Roman army; Jews were not, because the Jewish faith forbade fighting on the Sabbath. The Syrians were expected to add the name of Caesar to the gods they worshipped, the Jews escaped this — the only province exempt from the imperial decree to adore Caesar. In the markets, the Jews mocked the Syrian soldiers, whom they despised, and lent them money at usurious rates.

The Jews did not like the Syrians for several reasons. Jews who lived in Syria sent word home that the natives treated them cruelly, cheated in marketing goods, mocked them, stoned their shops, violated their women. In all the known places of the of the Cedron lay immediately outside this wall, giving it an imposing eminence. The south wall was protected by a small valley and the west wall presented similar problems to an invader. So Antonia, like a big stone wedge, was laid partly inside and partly outside the northeast wall, where the ground was fairly level.

Subterranean Exits

It had added to permit reinforcements from the north to get inside the fortress from outside the wall, in the event that the Jews had sealed all other gates. It also had, on its south side, subterranean exits onto the temple grounds, so that, at a time of insurrection, the Romans could move into the Court of the Gentiles in force and, if necessary, invest the entire temple.

Many of the stones in the wall around the Holy City of Jerusalem were thirty-four feet long and seventeen feet broad, and they had been brought from distant places. The walls, not taking into account the valleys which sheered off below them, averaged about thirty-five feet in height, above which were battlements and turrets of about nine feet.

Tower Of Hananeel

So the great wall was formidable, but Herod's Antonia, a gift to Rome, cancelled the value of the wall. Antonia was 536 feet long, 300 feet wide and 84 feet high. The original building was somewhat smaller and had, in the old days, been called the Tower of Hananeel and was known to the prophet Jeremiah. Flavius Josephus, who would be writing about it a generation later, said: "The niceness of the joints and the beauty of the stones were in no way inferior to the holy house itself."

Antonia contained porches, baths, huge courts made of tremendous stones, private apartments, two cisterns, each big enough to hold a platoon of soldiers without crowding, quarters for a full garrison of legionaries (the Twelfth Legion was often quartered inside its walls); a public highway ran through it, leading from Golgotha to the Probatic Gate. The roadway inside the fortress was made of flagstones eight to ten inches thick and serrated in etched stripes so that beasts of burden would not slip on its surface in wet weather.

Fortress Well Lighted

The entire fortress was well lighted at night with several hundred bronze and iron lamps hung high on the walls and fed with olive oil. On the temple side there was a tower 120 feet high. Inside the fort were shops, and all flooring stones in the courts and on top of the fortress were pitched slightly so that the rain ran into grooved gutters and then fell forty feet below the streets to the cisterns.

To the Jews, the Antonia inside their walls was an exposed nerve in a large molar.

In the upper room of the house of Mark's father, the Passover supper proceeded, punctuated by the ceremonial cups of wine and the breaking of the unleavened cakes. It is not known how closely Jesus followed the rubric. It is plausible to think that after the opening remarks and the dire prophecy that He would eat no more of the Pasch, He followed the ritual closely and dipped the bitter herbs into vinegar, spoke the blessing, and handed herbs to each of the eleven. He broke the matzo, and put one aside — called the Aphiqomen — which was to be eaten after supper.

As He blessed the first matzo, He elevated the dish which held them and said: "This is the bread of misery which our fathers ate in the land of Egypt. All you who are hungry, come and eat. All that are needy, come, keep the pascha."

The ceremonial cups of wine were drunk at proper intervals and the Apostles borrowed cheer from the wine and forgot — or seemed to forget — that Jesus had announced the imminence of His death, and they no longer pondered the accusation of a traitor in the group. Nine of the eleven did not know that the accused was Judas, and the two who did reposed such complete faith in Jesus that they held their silence.

The guards along the walls of Jerusalem called out the fourth hour of the night watch. In thousands of homes, the first Seder was nearing an end.

Jesus knew that Caiaphas wanted no disturbance in the city. Caiaphas was aware Jesus had multitudes of followers among the Jews up and down the land. The public arrest of the Master would surely create a stir which might lead to rioting — and rioting always led to bloody police action by the Roman occupational forces. Jesus knew that His arrest, if possible, would be carried out on tiptoe. While He waited for this to happen, He instituted the Sacrament which made the Disciples realize He was establishing a new faith. You will want to be sure to continue the story here Tuesday.

JERUSALEM was quiet. On the ramparts of Fortress Antonia a Roman guard folded his arms against the chill of an east wind and watched his off-duty comrades roll dice on the huge flagstones below. He was chuckling at the braying arguments after each roll when his attention was diverted by the sentry at the twin west gates, who stepped into the

He watched the sentry, who spoke sharply to someone in the gloom outside the twin gates. In a moment the sentry was waving someone inside the huge courtyard, but whoever it was would come no further than under the twin gates. In the pale courtyard lights, the soldier on the ramparts could see that it was the high priest, and beside him was world, only the Syrians regarded it as a sport to go hunting for Jews. The Syrians were crude and uncultured, compared to the Romans and the Greeks and the Egyptians. In Palestine, the Jews regarded it as humiliating enough to be under the heel of Rome, but to suffer at the hands of Syrian mercenaries was almost too much to bear.

The sentry on the rampart was happy to note that Pilate kept Caiaphas waiting.

Fortress Antonia was, in essence, a renegade's revenge. It had been built by the father of King Herod Antipas, the current ruler, Herod, the Great. He was a half Jew fond of building elaborate structures and beautiful cities. When the Romans made him king of the Jews, he named the fortress, which kept Jerusalem in subjugation, after his friend Mark Antony.

Antonia was cleverly built. The temple occupied almost half the east wall of the city. The Valley

M. ANDERSON, PLAYWRIGHT, DIES SATURDAY

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Playwright Maxwell Anderson saw the theater as a great force spreading light into the dark corners of human experience.

He took to writing plays late in life and then plunged into it as a "religious experience." He worked at it meticulously until a few days before he died.

Only a stroke stopped the flow from his pen. He was 70 when he died in Stamford hospital Saturday.

Anderson the man was interested in all the vital aspects of life. His eyes caught everything happening around him. His plays were a testimony to his breadth of knowledge.

Anderson the newspaperman-playwright spotlighted congressional log rolling in "Both Your Houses," which won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1933.

Anderson, the poet playwright, wrote 11 successful plays in verse. Anderson, the realist playwright wrote the first American play, "What Price Glory?" with Lawrence Stallings in 1924, to show war as something beyond a setting for heroic deeds.

Anderson, the social-conscious playwright, wrote "Winterset." He called it a "serious indictment of the hysterical justice meted out in the Sacco-Vanzetti trial."

Anderson, the romantic playwright, wrote the tender lyrics to the popular "September Song"—written 20 years ago for "Knickerbocker Holiday."

Anderson began as a teacher, drifted to newspaper writing, and came upon the theater quietly in 1923 with a play called "The White Desert." No one was enthusiastic. A year later "What Price Glory?" thundered onto Broadway and Anderson was able to devote full time to writing plays.

Father Of Three

Anderson was married to Margaret Haskett in 1911. They had three sons — Alan, Terence and Quentin.

Mrs. Anderson died in 1931 and he married Gertrude Maynard—mother of a daughter, Hesper, by a former marriage—two years later. She died in 1933.

Anderson married Gilda Oakleaf in 1954. She and the sons survive.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Chapel of Columbia University in New York City. Eulogies will be delivered by author Mark Van Doren and playwright Robert Anderson, no relation.

TO GET BILL ON GRADUATED INCOME LEVY

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislation proposing that the state Constitution be amended to permit a graduated income tax will be introduced this session, Rep. Stephen McCann, House Democratic leader, said today.

McCann, after a meeting with Republican and Democratic leaders from both branches of the General Assembly, said the entire package of proposals from the Constitutional Revision Commission will be laid before the Assembly at some future date.

"That will include minority proposals on the income tax amendment, non-partisan election of judges and elimination of justices of the peace," the Democratic floor leader said.

Next Monday

At the same time, he said, discussion was deferred on whether there will be bi-partisan sponsorship of the some 35 proposals from the commission.

The commission's report is to be submitted to the Assembly next Monday. The legislative leaders met here Sunday night for preliminary discussion of its handling.

The House and Senate were to meet in joint session later today for Gov. Lawrence's presentation of his budget, the governor's first appearance before a joint session since he took office.

Record Budget

He was expected to recommend a record budget for the next two years of about $1,900,000,000. He also was expected to recommend adoption in its entirety of his special tax advisory commission's proposals for raising some 400 million dollars in additional revenue in the upcoming biennium. Keynote of those proposals is an

INDEPENDENCE IS FADING FOR BUSINESS TOO

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—What ever became of self-reliance?

It used to be the mark of most Americans. They took care of themselves, their families—young and old—and their own futures. They went to work with the idea of getting ahead, maybe dreaming of being their own boss, risky as that might be.

Now the emphasis seems to have swung to something called security.

Think Of Pension

Many employers complain that when they interview a job applicant today the talk switches at once to what kind of a pension plan the company has. The job seeker mentally figures how that will supplement the social security he'll collect from the government.

The would-be employee also asks about the company's policies on severance pay and unemployment benefits, health insurance, sick pay and many other fringe benefits.

But business itself is just as busy chasing security.

Government subsidies aimed at insuring the security of various groups or industries take many forms.

Government Subsidies

There is the familiar cry of the railroads that the airlines benefit from postal subsidies and from use of airport facilities built at taxpayers' expense; and that trucks use highways also provided by tax money.

Security on the farm is a political issue. The farmer can't be made secure from the weather's onslaughts — droughts, floods, dust storms. But in many cases he can be sure that the rice of what he does raise will be supported by the government, and that in some cases he'll be paid by the soil bank for NOT raising anything.

Industry turns to government for many kinds of security against the perils of foreign, or even domestic, competition. Government stockpiling has been used to furnish markets for, and support prices of, various metals and other materials.

Small business looks to government to make credit available on favorable terms and to watch constantly lest big business get too big—and to remember them particularly when government orders are handed out.

Small Craft Lands In Wheat Field

READING, Pa. (AP)—The pilot of a small plane made a safe landing in a nearby wheat field early Sunday after he had lost his way in a dense fog.

Melvin Hess, an auto dealer from Hershey, and a passenger, Miss Susan Myers, of Fontana, Lebanon County, took off from Lancaster to fly to Hershey in Hess' four-passenger aircraft late Saturday night.

Herman Himmelreich heard the plane roaring above his residence at nearby Bernville and turned on some floodlights which permitted Hess to spot a wheat field and bring the aircraft in.

12 Traffic Deaths For Pa. Weekend

Last weekend accidents claimed the lives of 17 persons in the state.

FRANK LANE ASKS WAR ON N. Y. YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Frank Lane, blunt-spoken general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has made a frank exhortation to the other American League clubs to join him in all-out warfare against the New York Yankees.

"We should all have one common objective," declared the fiery Lane. "That is to do everything in our power — on the field, of course — to prevent the Yankees from winning again."

"I feel we can do it," he added, "if we get together and make up our minds to throw only the best pitchers against the Yankees. If we all concentrate on that I'm willing to bet this season will be remembered as the year the Yankees did not win the pennant."

"The Trouble Is . . ."

"The trouble with some of the other clubs is that they have draped a cloak of invincibility over the Yankees. We must destroy this illusion. The Yankees are good but they are not an outstanding club by any means. They are benefiting from a certain momentum, a carryover from previous winning clubs."

Lane's latest blast at the Yankees came in the nature of a parting shot. A St. Petersburg, Fla., resident, he left immediately for the Indians' training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

"The Yankees wouldn't have won last year if Bob Turley and Ryne Duren hadn't come through," Lane said. "And Duren was a distinct surprise. They certainly didn't win because of their hitting."

Three Over Forty

"They don't figure to be any better this year. When a Yankee team goes into spring training with three players 40 years old and over, that's an indication they are hurting."

Lane did not say so outright but he indicated certain clubs last year assumed a defeatist attitude when playing the Yankees.

"Some clubs figured why use their best pitchers and take a chance on losing when Whitey Ford was scheduled to pitch for the Yankees," he said. "A weak club is next to what they saved the best for an almost certain victory. We must adopt a gang-up policy on the Yankees this year."

FORD is built for people...

Ford's wide seats are deeply padded all the way across... there's no hard spot for the middleman. And all six passengers have plenty of elbow and hip room.

It's so much easier to get into and out of a Ford... with wide door openings contoured to fit you. Inside, you get the head room you need to wear your hat... leg room to stretch out comfortably.

FORD is built for savings!

Fords are lowest priced of the most popular three! Equipped with radio, heater, and automatic transmission—Fords are priced up to $102.75 less!

Ford Six and standard Thunderbird V-8 engines thrive on lower-cost regular gas... save you up to a dollar a tankful. Ford's standard Full-Flow Oil Filter saves still more... you go a full 4000 miles between oil changes.

New, standard aluminum Ford mufflers normally last twice as long as the ordinary kind. And Ford's exclusive new Diamond Lustre Finish never needs waxing.
